PROJECTS

- BLUE ECONOMY DEVELOPMENT IN NYANZA REGION A CASE STUDY SIAYA, HOMABAY AND KISUMU

This research project explores the potential and challenges of blue economic development in the Nyanza region, focusing on Siaya, Kisumu, and Homa Bay counties. It examines the sustainable use of Lake Victoria's resources for economic growth, including fisheries, transport, tourism, and water-based trade. The study analyzes policy frameworks, environmental concerns, and community involvement, aiming to propose strategies that promote inclusive and sustainable economic activities while preserving the lake ecosystem

PUBLICATIONS

- BLUE ECONOMY INFRASTRUCTURE DEVELOPMENT IN NYANZA REGION A CASE STUDY SIAYA HOMABAY AND KISUMU

This research investigates the role of infrastructure development in unlocking the potential of the blue economy in Kenya's Nyanza region, focusing on Siaya, Kisumu, and Homa Bay counties. It explores how strategic investments in ports, fish landing sites, cold storage, and transport networks can enhance sustainable economic growth through fisheries, aquaculture, tourism, and water transport. Using a combination of field data, stakeholder interviews, and policy analysis, the study highlights the region's untapped aquatic resources and proposes actionable recommendations for inclusive development. The findings aim to support regional planning, attract investment, and influence policy for sustainable utilization of Lake Victoria's resources.
